

For the same change in the Shear Rate Values, the Stress change value in (a) goes up but that change in (b) remains constant.

The extra pressure (stress) was needed because the viscosity value for fluid described in (a) is going up.

